Countdown Calendar
The Official User Guide

A surprise behind every door. For iPhone, iPad and Android.

Coming this holiday season to the App Store and Google Play

Written for parents, grandparents, couples and anyone who can't wait. The door art in this guide is the app's own drawings.

BEFORE WE BEGIN

Welcome! (Please don't open the guide early.)

Countdown Calendar turns the days before something wonderful into a row of little doors. Each door unlocks at midnight on its day and opens to a note, a joke, a fun fact or a challenge, along with its own animated surprise. The last door gets the big finish.

The Scottish Fold: I've read this whole guide. Twice. The good bits are on every page, a bit like doors.

You can make one for Christmas, Hanukkah, Halloween, a wedding, a new baby, a big birthday, a trip, a retirement, or any date you like. Then you can keep it for yourself or send it to someone as a gift.

CHAPTER 1

Getting started (the easy part)

1. Install the app from the App Store (iPhone and iPad, iOS 17 or later) or Google Play (Android 8.0 or later). There's no account to make and nothing to sign in to.
2. Open it. On iPhone and iPad you'll see a sample calendar for the season, so you can tap around right away. On Android you start in My Calendars.
3. Make your own. Open My Calendars (the stack icon at the top left on iPhone, the list icon on Android) and choose New Calendar (iPhone) or + New calendar (Android).
4. Pick what you're counting down to. The types are grouped into Holidays, Love, Life Events and Custom.
5. Fill in the details if your type has them: the date, how many doors, and names. For example, partner names for a wedding, a birthday person and their age, or a trip destination.
6. Open today's door! Then come back tomorrow. (We'll remind you if you like. See Chapter 7.)

Tabby:
Step one: install. Step two: wait patiently. I'm not great at step two.

These pictures are design previews made from the app's screens. Your phone may look a little different.

CHAPTER 2

How the doors work

- Doors unlock at midnight, your local time, on their own day. Door 1 is the first day, door 2 the next, and so on.
- Tap a door that's ready and it opens with an animation (plus a little buzz, if haptics are on). Behind it is that day's message and its surprise animation.
- Tap a door that isn't ready yet and it wiggles at you and tells you when to come back. No peeking!

- Opened doors stay open. Tap one again any time to reread it.
- Jokes come in two parts. If a message has two lines, the first line is the setup and the second is the punchline, which waits behind a tap.
- The last door is the big finale, with its own celebration and confetti: "Merry Christmas!", "Wedding Day!", "Happy Birthday!" and so on.

Door 24: I'm the finale. I've been rehearsing my big entrance since November.

- Holiday dates figure themselves out. Easter, Thanksgiving (the fourth Thursday of November) and Hanukkah are calculated every year. Hanukkah's doors are Night 1 to Night 8, and Hanukkah is worked out from the Hebrew calendar.

Door labels

Holiday calendars like Advent and Halloween show the day of the month on each door. Calendars that end on a date you pick (a wedding, a birthday, a trip) count down: "12 days to go," "1 day to go," then the big day.

From door 2 of the Advent calendar: What do you call a snowman with a six-pack? An abdominal snowman!

Preview mode (the secret switch for grown-ups)

Want to see every surprise before you give a calendar away? Press and hold the calendar's title for about a second. Every door unlocks so you can try them all, and a Close All button (Android: Reset doors) appears to shut them again. Press and hold the title again to leave. Preview mode never unlocks doors on a gift-locked calendar someone sent you. That would spoil the fun!

Reduce animations: if you prefer calm surprises, turn on Reduce animations in Settings (or Reduce Motion on your device). Every door then opens with a gentle fade and every surprise is the calm version. No screen shakes.

CHAPTER 3

The 15 calendar types

Every type comes with its own starter notes, finale, animations and suggested color themes, ready to go. Change anything you like.

Ginger Kitten: Christmas Advent is free. So is Hanukkah. I checked under the tree.

From door 8 of the Advent calendar: What did the wrapping paper say to the present? "Don't worry, I've got you covered!"

Calendar types, dates, doors and price

Type	Ends on	Doors (start, range)	Price
🎄 Christmas Advent	Starts Dec 1 (you can change it)	24 (24–25)	Free
🕎 Hanukkah	8 nights, from the Hebrew calendar	8	Free
🎃 Halloween	Starts Oct 1	31 (1–31)	$0.99
🦃 Thanksgiving	The 4th Thursday of November	30 (1–60)	$0.99
🐣 Easter	Easter Sunday, worked out each year	14 (1–50)	$0.99
🎆 New Year's Eve	Dec 31	7 (1–31)	$0.99
🎂 Birthday	The birthday	30 (7–100)	$0.99
🎓 Graduation	Graduation day	30 (7–100)	$0.99
🏖️ Vacation	The day the trip starts	30 (7–100)	$0.99
💍 Wedding	The wedding day	30 (7–100)	$1.99
💞 Anniversary	The anniversary	30 (7–100)	$1.99
💘 Valentine's Day	Feb 14	14 (1–14)	$1.99
👶 Baby on the way	The due date	40 (7–280)	$1.99
🌅 Retirement	The last day of work	30 (7–100)	$1.99
✨ Custom	Any date, with your own title	30 (1–365)	$2.99

Prices are one-time, shown in US dollars as currently set in the App Store and Google Play. Your store shows the price in your own currency. Unlock All ($6.99) unlocks every type and every door style. More in Chapter 10.

> Look before you unlock: every type has a read-only sample with all its doors open. On iPhone, find them under Samples in My Calendars, or tap Look at the sample first on a locked type. On Android, use Preview a kind.

Yearly holidays roll over by themselves. If this year's Easter or Valentine's Day has already passed, a new calendar is set up for the next one, not a calendar full of old open doors.

A few of the 24 cats. They come free with every calendar type you own.

CHAPTER 4

Make it yours: Settings

Tap the gear at the top right of any calendar you can edit. Here's what you'll find.

📅 Calendar and dates

Change the type, title, date and number of doors. For Advent and Halloween you can also move the first door. Changing the type asks first, because it replaces the current doors.

📝 Details

The names and facts that make it personal: partner names, years married, the birthday person and their age, the baby's name and parents, the graduate and school, the retiree, the trip and travelers, or a custom title.

🎨 Theme

21 color themes, from Classic Night and Candy Cane to Spooky Night, Ruby, Sunny Beach, Golden Hour and Blue & Silver. Each type's suggested themes are listed first.

🚪 Door style

How the doors look and open: Classic, Cats, Dogs, Race Cars, Dinosaurs, Rocket Ships, Trucks or Farm Animals. Chapter 5 is all about them.

✨ Feel

Haptics (a little buzz when a door opens) and Reduce animations (calm fades instead of big moves).

⏰ Reminder

A daily "Door N is ready!" nudge at the time you choose. See Chapter 7.

Edit each door

Open Edit each door (Android: Daily messages) and tap any day to change its message and pick its animation. There are 75 to choose from, and any animation works with any type. You can also give a single door its own door style and look.

Little magic words fill themselves in when the door opens:

Type this	And the door shows
`{days}`	"12 days" (or "1 day") until the last door
`{name}`, `{age}`	The birthday person, baby, graduate or retiree, and the age they're turning
`{partner}`, `{years}`, `{ordinal}`	Your partner's name (the name after the "&", so "Alex" in "Sam & Alex"), years married, and "25th"
`{destination}`, `{travelers}`	Where you're going and who's coming

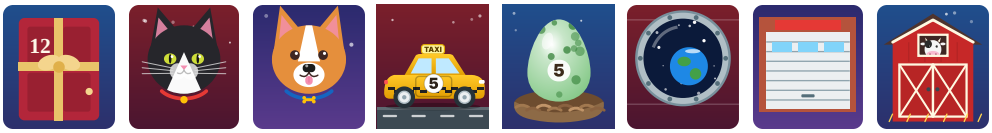

Put a joke on two lines and the second line becomes the tap-to-reveal punchline.

Start over: Restore default messages (Android: Reset to defaults) brings back the starter notes, animations and theme; names and dates stay. Close all doors re-closes every door.

CHAPTER 5

Door styles (meet the cats and dogs)

A door style changes how your doors look and how they open. It works with any calendar type and any color theme. Find it in Settings › Door style, where every style has a live preview.

Style	The closed door	How it opens	Price
🚪 Classic	The original paneled door with a bow	Swings open on its hinge	Free
🐱 Cats	24 cats, never the same one twice in a row	A cat flap that swings up	Free
🐶 Dogs	12 dogs, never the same one twice in a row	A pet flap that swings up	Free
🏎️ Race Cars	6 cars, from a racer to a hot rod	A car door that swings out	$0.99
🦖 Dinosaurs	Speckled eggs in a nest	The egg cracks and hatches	$0.99
🚀 Rockets	Portholes onto planets and stars	The hatch pops open	$0.99
🚚 Trucks	Dump trucks and garages	Bed tips, or garage rolls up	$0.99
🐮 Farm	A barn with a cow, chicken, pig, sheep or horse	The barn doors swing open	$0.99

Sleepy Cat:
I'm cat number 22. Wake me up on the 22nd. Not before. Thank you.

The cats: tabby, orange, calico, tuxedo, black, fluffy white, Siamese, gray, kitten, Persian, Maine Coon, striped, Bengal, Russian Blue (with a bell), Scottish Fold (with glasses), Sphynx, ginger kitten (in a Santa hat), tortoiseshell, snowshoe, lilac point (with a flower), black kitten (with a bow), sleepy cat (in a nightcap), cat in a scarf, and silver tabby (in a bow tie). A 24-door Advent shows all 24. The dogs: golden retriever, black Lab, Dalmatian, beagle, corgi, poodle, husky, dachshund, pug, border collie, Chihuahua and a Santa-hat puppy.

When a door opens, the style's characters join in for a second or two above the surprise: a cat bats a paw, a puppy wags, a farm animal says hello, a dino stomps and roars, a car zooms past, a rocket lifts off, a truck tips out confetti. They never cover the note. The other styles rotate five or six looks.

Mix in fun facts & jokes

Turn on Mix in fun facts & jokes for this style under the style picker, and the starter notes become kid-friendly facts and jokes about that style (27 or 28 of them). If you've already written your own messages, the app asks first: Keep My Messages, Replace Them Too, or Cancel. Turn the switch off and the starter notes come back. Your own messages are never touched. The last door always keeps its big finale.

One door, different style: in Edit each door, pick a door and choose its Door style and Look ("Which cat? Calico"). Got a calendar in a style you don't own? It always shows the sender's style, free.

Cats: What do you call a pile of kittens? A meow-ntain!

Dinosaurs: How do you invite a T. rex to a tea party? Tea, Rex?

CHAPTER 6

Help me write the notes

Staring at 30 blank doors? The guided interview asks you a few friendly questions, skip any you like, and then writes a note for every door from your answers. It works right on your phone: no AI service, no internet, and your answers never leave your device. Only the finished notes go into the calendar.

Lilac Point:
Thirty love notes? I can't even write one. Good thing the app asks the questions.

Works with: Wedding, Anniversary, Valentine's Day, Birthday (with a Kid or Grown-up tone), Baby, Graduation, Retirement, Vacation and Custom.

1. Open Settings › Guided interview (Android: Help me write the notes).
2. For a wedding, choose who's writing: Bride, Groom or Partner. For a birthday, pick the Kid or Grown-up style.
3. Answer the questions. Some examples:
   - Wedding: "Where did you two first meet?" … "One promise you want to make to them?"
   - Birthday: "What's their favorite thing right now?"
   - Vacation: "What's the one thing you have to eat?"
   - Retirement: "What's a funny work story about them?"
4. iPhone and iPad: all the questions sit on one page. Tap Write My 30 Messages. Android: one question per screen with Skip, then a preview where you can Regenerate, edit any note, and accept.

A design preview of the notes the interview writes

On a wedding calendar, the doors just before the big day are saved for what you're most excited about and your promise, and the wedding day gets the finale. For example, "Sam & Alex" get 30 days of notes ending in "Wedding Day!" If you've edited some notes and run the interview again, it asks whether to keep yours or replace them all.

CHAPTER 7

Daily reminders

Never miss a door. In Settings › Reminder, turn on Daily reminder and choose a Time (it starts at 9:00 AM). The first time, your phone asks if Countdown Calendar can send notifications.

Black Kitten:
Ding! Door 7 is ready! (I'm not the reminder. I just like saying it.)

- On each day a door unlocks, you'll get a notification with the calendar's title and "Door N is ready!" Tap it to open the calendar (Android).
- It never shows the message, so surprises stay surprises.
- Reminders stop after the last door. Yearly holidays start up again next season.
- Reminders are set on your phone itself. There's no push service and no server.
- Reminders belong to your phone, not to the calendar. A reminder never travels with a gift, and someone who receives a gift-locked calendar can still turn on their own.

> If you said "Don't Allow" by mistake: the switch stays off and the app offers to open your phone's Settings, where you can turn notifications on for Countdown Calendar.

Very long calendars on iPhone (say, 280 days for a baby) keep reminding as long as you open the app now and then, at least every couple of months. On Android, battery saving can sometimes deliver a reminder a few minutes late.

From the Halloween calendar: Why are ghosts bad at telling lies? Because you can see right through them!

CHAPTER 8

Sharing and the gift lock

A Countdown Calendar makes a lovely gift for a grandchild, a fiancé or a best friend. Open Settings › Share or send as a gift… (Android: Gift & sharing, or the share icon on the calendar). Christmas Advent and Hanukkah calendars can always be shared for free. Sharing any other type is part of unlocking that type (or Unlock All), and opening a shared calendar is always free, for every type and every door style.

Persian:
Gift lock means no peeking. I peeked once. The door just wiggled at me. Rude.

Three ways to send it

📄 As a file

Sends a .countdown file by Messages, email, AirDrop, Files or any app on your share sheet. Tap the file on the other phone and it opens in the app. On Android you can also Save to Files…

⬛ As a QR code

Shown when the calendar fits (the starter calendars do). The other person opens My Calendars › Scan QR Code and points their camera at your screen, or at a printout.

🔗 As a link

A countdowncalendar:// link for messages. If an app doesn't make it tappable, copy it and use My Calendars › Paste Link (iPhone), or share the text to the app (Android).

iPhone and Android get along. The file, link and QR code work in both directions. Open a calendar you already have (say, an updated copy) and the app asks Replace your copy? Tap Replace, Keep Both or Cancel.

🎁 Gift lock and the "From" line

1. Set From, for example "From Grandma ❤️" or "From Sam & Alex". It shows on the calendar and on every surprise.
2. Turn on Gift lock.
3. Share it.

Whoever receives a gift-locked calendar can't edit it, can't open future doors early (not even in preview mode), and its messages aren't listed anywhere. Your own copy stays fully editable.

> The honest part: gift lock is a friendly lock that keeps the surprise. It isn't encryption. A shared calendar is a plain file, so a determined person could read it. Share with people you trust, and keep anything private out of the messages.

What's in a shared calendar: the type, title, dates, every door's message and animation, the theme and door styles, the names and details you entered, the From line and the gift-lock setting. What isn't: your interview answers, which doors you've opened, and your reminder settings.

CHAPTER 9

My Calendars

Tuxedo:
I keep all my calendars here. Also my snacks. Mostly snacks.

My Calendars is home base: the stack icon at the top left on iPhone and iPad, the list icon on Android. Make as many calendars as you like, and every one keeps its own doors.

- My Calendars: the ones you made and the ones people sent you. Tap one to open it.
- Add a calendar: New Calendar, Scan QR Code, Open a Shared File and Paste Link (iPhone). On Android: + New calendar, Open a file, Scan QR and Preview a kind.
- Samples: read-only examples of every type with all their doors open.
- Delete: swipe left and tap Delete (iPhone), or press and hold (Android). It's removed from this device only.

Can I edit a calendar someone sent me?

It depends. A gift-locked calendar is look-but-don't-touch, though you can still use Feel (haptics and reduce animations) and turn on your own daily reminder. A calendar of a type you haven't unlocked opens and works perfectly, every door, note and animation included; to edit it, the app shows "Shared with you. Unlock type to edit it or make your own." Passing it on works the same way: the 🔒 Share button explains that sharing that type is part of unlocking it (Christmas Advent can always be shared).

Moving to a new phone? Purchases come back with Restore Purchases. Your calendars live on your phone, so they move with your phone's own backup (iCloud on iPhone and iPad, or Google's backup on Android). You can also share each calendar to yourself as a file before you switch.

The Dinosaurs style, from egg to peek to "whoa, long neck."

CHAPTER 10

What unlocking adds

Christmas Advent and Hanukkah (sharing too), the Classic, Cats and Dogs styles, and opening any calendar sent to you are free, for keeps. Here's what's waiting if you want more.

The paid door styles. The cats are watching them suspiciously.

Calico:
Four of us stood on each other's shoulders to reach the Unlock All button. Worth it.

🦖 Doors that hatch, zoom, pop and tip

An egg hatches a stomping baby dino, a car door swings open, a porthole pops on Mars, a dump bed tips, barn doors swing wide. $0.99 each, or all 5 for $1.99

💌 Thirty love notes, written for you

Wedding, Anniversary and Valentine's Day calendars come with the guided interview, so a few answers turn into a note for every door. $1.99 each

💍 The wedding countdown

7 to 100 doors, hearts and rings, and "Wedding Day!" on the big day. $1.99

✨ Custom: any date, any reason

A classroom countdown to winter break, Grandpa's visit, the new puppy. Up to 365 doors and your own title. $2.99

Unlock	What you get	Price
A holiday or life event	Halloween, Thanksgiving, Easter, New Year's Eve, Birthday, Graduation or Vacation	$0.99 each
A love or big-life event	Wedding, Anniversary, Valentine's Day, Baby or Retirement	$1.99 each
Custom	Any date, your title, 1 to 365 doors	$2.99
A door style	Race Cars, Dinosaurs, Rocket Ships, Trucks or Farm Animals	$0.99 each
🎨 Door Styles Pack	All 5 paid door styles, plus paid styles we add later	$1.99
⭐ Unlock All	Every calendar type and every door style, including ones we add later (Family Sharing on iPhone and iPad)	$6.99

How it works: tap anything with a 🔒 to see its preview, then Unlock for the price, or Unlock all. Each one is a one-time purchase through Apple or Google: no subscription, nothing to renew.

Restore Purchases is on every unlock screen. Use it on a new phone or after reinstalling, with the same Apple or Google account. Family Sharing: on iPhone and iPad, Unlock All is shared with your family group (if it doesn't appear, they tap Restore Purchases). Single types, door styles and the pack aren't shared. On Android, purchases belong to the Google account that bought them and aren't shared with family.

CHAPTER 11

Our philosophy and your privacy

We make apps the way we'd want them for our own family. You pay once, a little, for what you want. There are no ads, no subscriptions and no accounts, and we don't collect or share your data. Your calendars stay on your device.

Countdown Calendar comes from Zyzygy, Inc., a small company in Goldthwaite, Texas.

What we don't do

- ✗ No ads
- ✗ No subscriptions
- ✗ No accounts
- ✗ No analytics or tracking
- ✗ No data collected or shared

The fine print, in plain words

- Everything stays on your device: your calendars, names, messages, which doors you've opened, interview answers and reminder settings. Zyzygy has no server and never receives any of it.
- The internet is only for purchases. Buying or restoring goes through Apple or Google, under their privacy policies. We never see your payment details. Everything else works without the internet.
- Sharing goes only where you send it. A shared calendar travels by the message, email, file or QR code you choose. Remember that it isn't encrypted (see Chapter 8).
- The camera is used only when you tap Scan QR Code, to read a calendar's code. Nothing is saved or sent, and the app asks first.
- Notifications are optional, scheduled on your phone, and off until you turn them on. On Android the app re-schedules them after your phone restarts.
- Backups: your phone's own backup may include the app's data, so a new phone can restore it. That's iCloud on iPhone and iPad, or the backup in your personal Google account on Android if you use it. Those backups belong to your Apple or Google account. Zyzygy never receives or sees them.
- Delete anything from My Calendars, or delete the app to remove everything it stored. Purchases stay with your Apple or Google account.

Siamese:
We don't even know your name. We're cats. We'd forget it anyway.

Countdown Calendar is for families of all ages. Grown-ups make and share the calendars, and kids open the doors. We don't collect personal information from anyone, including children.

CHAPTER 12

Troubleshooting

A door won't open.
It isn't its day yet. Doors unlock at midnight, your local time. Tap it and it tells you when to come back. If your phone's date or time zone is wrong, fix it in your phone's settings.

Sphynx:
Big ears. Great for listening to problems.

All the doors are open and I didn't open them!
You may be looking at a sample (it says "Sample calendar · every door is open"), or preview mode is on. Press and hold the title to leave preview mode, then use Close All.

The link isn't tappable.
Some apps don't make custom links tappable. Copy the link and use My Calendars › Paste Link on iPhone, share the text to Countdown Calendar on Android, or ask the sender for the file or QR code.

"Too big for a QR code."
Lots of long messages can make a calendar too big for a QR code. Share it as a file instead.

"This calendar is too big to open (over 2 MB)" or "This doesn't look like a Countdown Calendar."
The file or link is damaged, cut off, or isn't a calendar. Ask the sender to share it again, as a file if possible. Nothing is saved when this happens.

I can't edit a calendar someone sent me.
It's gift-locked, or it's a type you haven't unlocked. See Chapter 9.

My reminder didn't come.
Check that notifications are allowed for Countdown Calendar in your phone's settings and that the reminder is on for that calendar. Reminders only fire on days a new door unlocks. On Android, battery saving can delay one by a few minutes.

Prices didn't load, or the Unlock button is gray.
Prices come from Apple or Google, so you need an internet connection. Tap Prices didn't load. Try again. On Android, the app also needs Google Play.

I bought something, but it's locked on my new phone.
Tap Restore Purchases on any unlock screen, signed in to the same Apple or Google account you bought with.

My new Easter calendar is set for next year.
That's on purpose. Once a holiday has passed, a new calendar counts down to the next one.

CHAPTER 13

FAQ

Does the person I send it to have to pay?
No. Opening a shared calendar is always free, for every type and every door style, gift-locked ones included. They see your door style and every door's surprise exactly as you made them.

Do I have to pay to share?

Not for Christmas Advent or Hanukkah: share those as much as you like. Sharing any other type is part of unlocking that type, or Unlock All. Door styles never affect sharing.

Cat in a Scarf: Frequently Asked Questions. Also Frequently Asked Treats.

Does Family Sharing work?

For Unlock All on iPhone and iPad, yes: everyone in your Apple Family Sharing group gets it. Single types and door styles aren't shared, and it shares the purchase only, never your calendars. On Android, purchases belong to the Google account that bought them and aren't shared with family.

Can I send a calendar from my iPhone to an Android phone?

Yes. Files, links and QR codes work both ways.

Can I add photos behind the doors?

No. Doors hold messages, jokes and animations. The door art is drawn by the app itself.

How many calendars can I make?

As many as you like, of any type you've unlocked.

Can I change a calendar after I've shared it?

Yes, on your copy. Share it again. When they open it, the app asks Replace your copy? (Replace, Keep Both or Cancel).

Will the reminder spoil the surprise?

No. It only says "Door N is ready!" and never shows the message.

How are Hanukkah, Easter and Thanksgiving dates worked out?

The app calculates them every year: Hanukkah from the Hebrew calendar, Easter Sunday with the standard Western method, and Thanksgiving as the fourth Thursday of November (US).

Does it work without the internet?

Yes. Only buying or restoring a purchase needs a connection, and sending a calendar uses whatever you choose to send it with.

Is it accessible?

Every door reads its date and whether it's locked, ready or opened to VoiceOver and TalkBack. Text grows with your phone's text-size setting (Dynamic Type on iPhone and iPad, font size on Android), and Reduce animations swaps every movement for a gentle fade.

One more for the road: Why does Santa go down the chimney? Because it soots him!
